Executive General Secretary

Compostela Group of Universities, Santiago de Compostela (Spain)

The Compostela Group of Universities is a non-profit association of universities - 70 universities in 22 countries - which headquarters are based in Santiago de Compostela. I was appointed as executive general Secretary (executive director) with the mission of fostering the international activities and projects of the group.

Main tasks involved: project drafting, fostering new ideas, networking, international representation, human resources and raising new funds - from private companies / enterprises and public bodies - and initiatives for the partner universities. During the time of my assignment, which was part-time in order to be compatible with my status as Director of the International Office of the University of Santiago de Compostela, I had clear objectives of changing the image of the CGU in order to become the best international association of universities in Europe; increasing the number of partners and projects
